OBITUARY TO JOHN BEV.

John L. Bevan came from Blackwood, Mon., born 1934, and came to Birmingham in 1951 to be apprenticed at GEC Witton Switchgear Works. Soon afterwards, he did the drawing-board designs for the main switchboard for the Royal Research Ship 'JOHN BISCOE', which still sails the Antarctic seas. A spell of National Service in the Royal Navy strengthened his connections with the sea.

John's interest in caves had always been strong and he was a hard worker at everything from cave surveying to building work on the club H.Q. During his membership of the S.W.C.C., John had served on the committee several times holding the posts of Warden and Treasurer. His cave diving activities, mainly on Mendip, gained further from Naval diving training.

On leaving the Navy, he returned to the Witton Works where after further studies in engineering, he was promoted from the drawing-board to "Engineer" and was later concerned with the engineering of high voltage "grid" substations for the Central Electricity Generating Board.

With the closing of the Witton Switchgear Works in 1969, John went to work for the M.E.B.

John was always good where water was concerned and I remember one rescue operation in OFD I when we were struggling down stream-passage with a heavy unconscious man in a Niel Robertson stretcher. It was John who stood deepest in the cold water to support the casualty. No mean feat in pre-wetsuit days.

Whilst serving with the Navy in Ireland, he met Robbie, the girl he married soon afterwards. They have two daughters, both now at school.

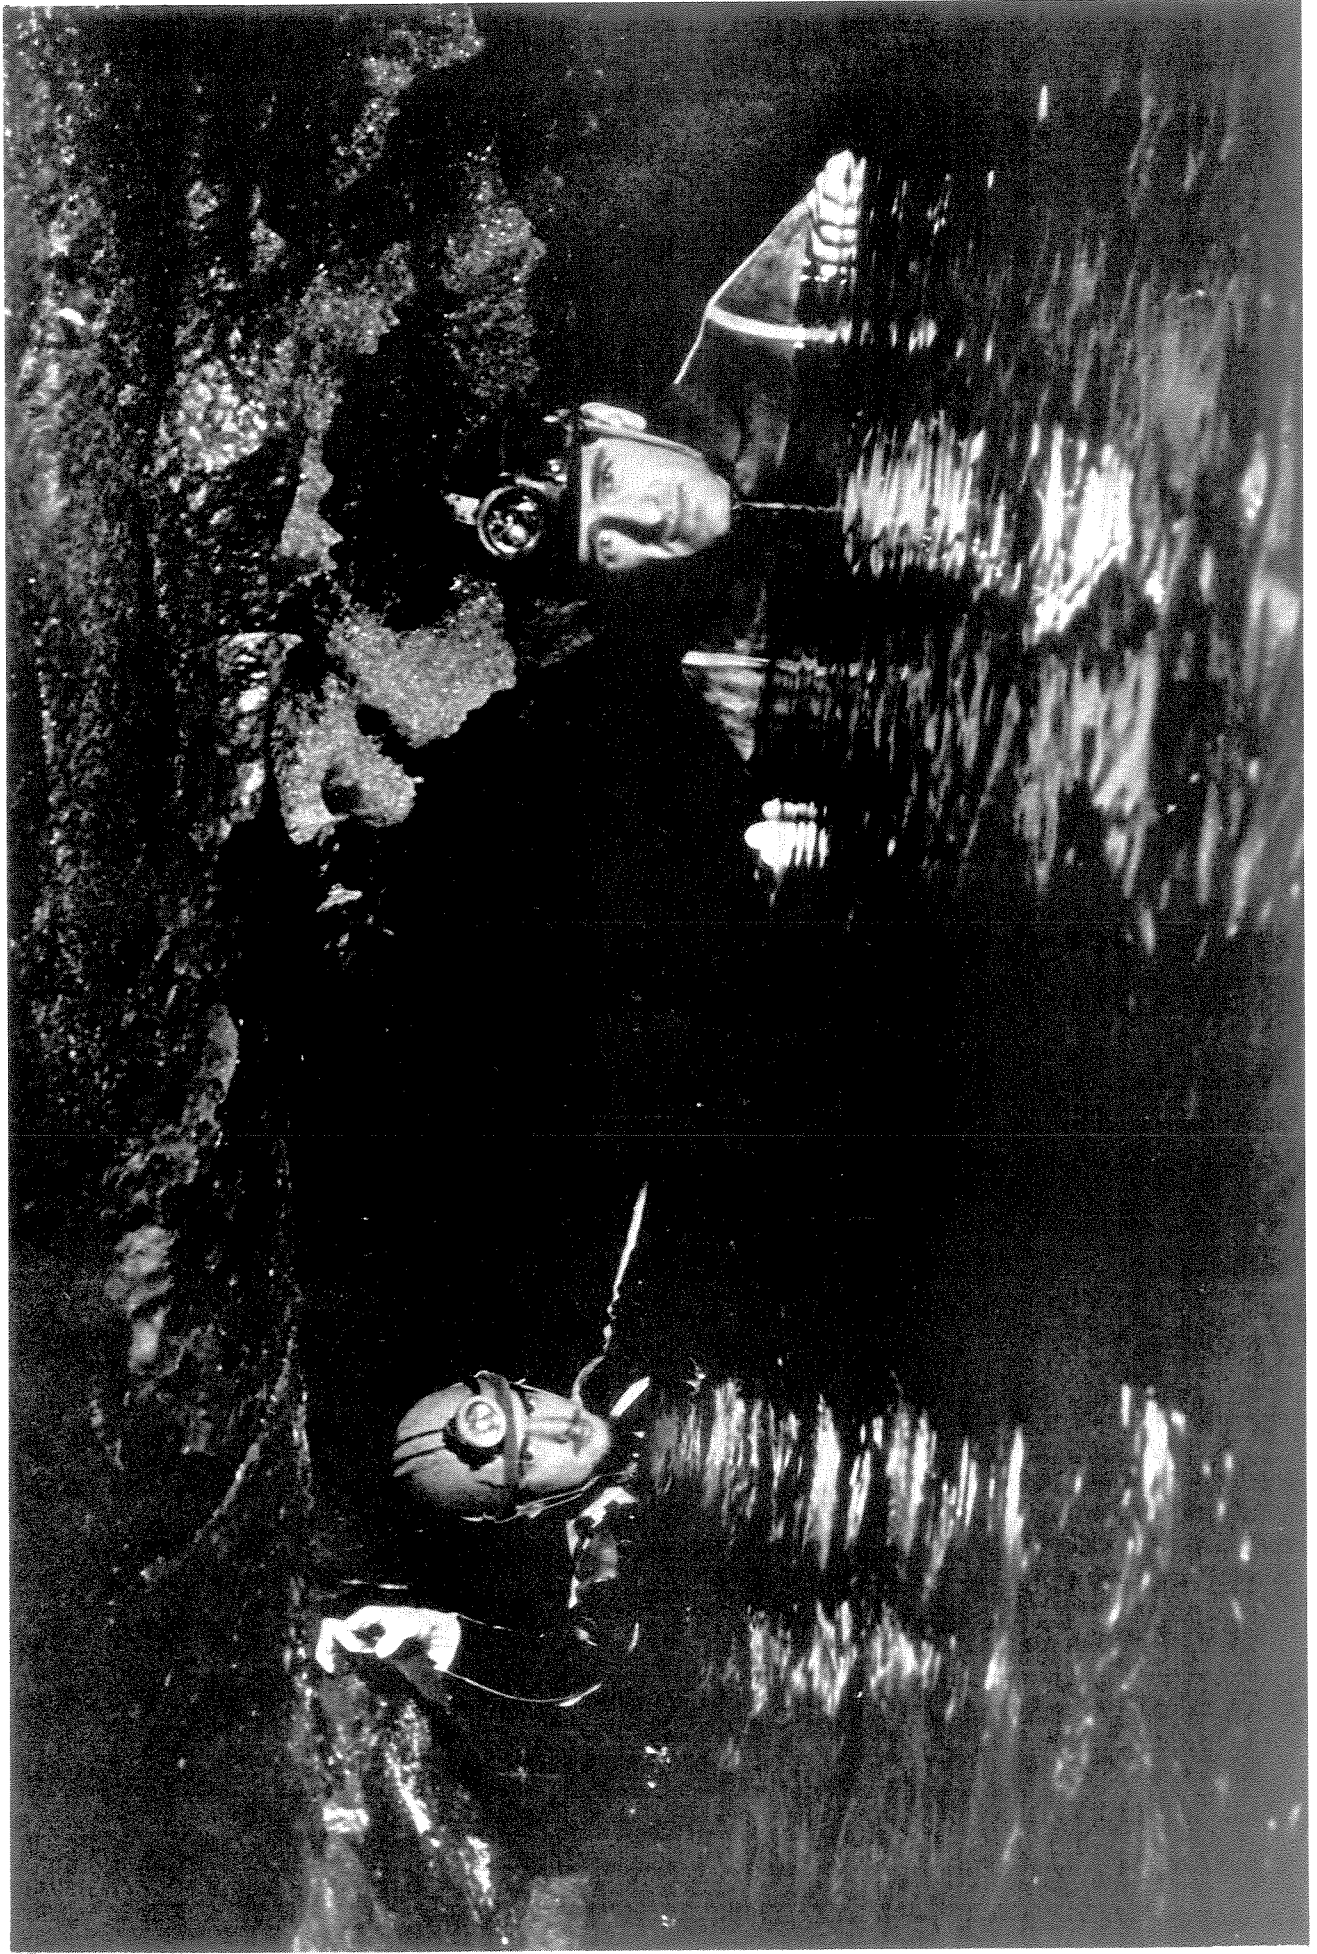

Many of John's and Robbie's early trips to South Wales were on a scooter loaded sometimes beyond the point of stability, but in spite of spills, he remained an active caver and frequent visitor at the married quarters in Penwyllt until taken ill with cancer. Operations and treatment, successful at first, became a losing battle until after nearly a year of part-time working, his condition became too bad even to want to see his friends.

Death came as a merciful release on February 20th, 1975.

The Crematorium at Sutton Coldfield (26th February) was filled to capacity with friends, relatives and workmates. Not surprising, because everyone liked John.

John himself had expressed a wish of "No Flowers", and a collection amongst members of SWCC resulted in £43.00 being handed to Robbie for cancer-research. We all look forward to seeing Robbie and the children at Penwyllt whenever she wants to come. It is still her Club as well.

OFD II STREAMWAY by CLIVE WESTLAKE

We thought Members may be interested in the following letter!

Stoughton Vicarage,
Chichester,
Sussex.

9th April 1975

The Secretary, the Caving Club,
Near Swansea, South Wales.

Dear Sir,

I was interested in the television film about your activities in the caves beyond Swansea. Would you be prepared to consider the following hypothesis of the way they were formed? It is only a speculation, but your chemical analyses might well contribute to prove or disprove it.

The following facts should be noted:

1. The great South Wales coalfield is in the region north of Swansea. Was the cave of the Black Spring and its adjoining caves at one time filled with coal? Which as a result of water, filled with acids and other chemicals, dissolved, leaving the empty caves, which were then subjected to other chemical activities resulting in the formation of stalactites, etc.
2. Coal is a "soft rock". It begins to decompose immediately it is exposed to the air in a coal mine. The action of the atmosphere and rain would soon dissolve the coal - by soon I mean geologically speaking. The coal would probably disappear from the interior of the Black Spring in about two centuries, which is a short time, geologically.

In other words, are the caves inland from Swansea, simply "coal mines" which with water happening to find a way into and out of, allowed a continuous stream of chemically charged water, from swamps etc., to dissolve out the coal, to leave empty caves?

This could happen in any part of the coalfield, a necessary condition being that water should flow through over a period of perhaps some centuries, to gradually dissolve the coal. Water merely soaking into some coal formation would produce little effect, and could only be an occasional occurrence. But the fact that, as the television film said, the caves above

Swansea are the largest system in Britain, needs some simple explanation, and the above hypothesis might be considered. It is, of course, only a guess, but your analyses of the chemistry of the water flowing through the caves might provide useful clues to establish such a theory. What other theory could explain their existence? Was there no coal where the caves now are, when much of South Wales is full of rocks holding coal?

(I was born in South Wales, and have relations all over South Wales, although I was taken when a small child to Sussex, where I have lived mainly since. My late father was curate at Ferndale and Mardy, about 1900, and I have a presentation private communion set given him by friends at Ferndale on his leaving for Chesterfield - to preach to the aborigines of Derbyshire - without any visible effect. Later he moved to preach to the natives of Sussex, again without any visible effect!) (I am 75 years old, and wrote once about the effect of running water - rivers etc., on coal, pointing out that coal more even than limestone was quickly dissolved, which is a reason why rivers are never seen running over beds of coal, whereas they run over every other kind of rock, even temporarily over limestone.)

I am,
Yours sincerely,
With best wishes for the club,
P. H. Francis.

The Rev. P. H. Francis,
Rector of Racton, and Vicar of Stoughton, near Chichester, Sussex.

CONSERVATION OFFICER'S REPORT FOR 1974-75

During the last year I have been concerned with the organisation of two exhibitions about Caving. One at Dan yr Ogof which is still on display, and one in the central hall of the National Museum of Wales which ran for 6 weeks. Both exhibitions were designed to increase public awareness of caves and conservation of caves. At the National Museum of Wales a large number of fine black and white photographs were displayed together with a survey of Ogof Ffynnon Ddu. A handout described the history and exploration of the cave. Both exhibitions have been received with great interest by members of the public.

In August 1974, the BBC shot a film about OFD with the co-operation of a number of members. This film is to be shown on April 9th and also on a date in June. The Club has gained some financial benefit from this film.

Following an appeal last Easter for pledges of support for a conservation fund, in order to finance our representation at a public enquiry should this be necessary, I am pleased to be able to report that I have received pledges for between £800 and £900 from Club members and also from a number of other Clubs. The sponsored walk which has just taken place is expected to provide us with a large sum of money which will be a most welcome contribution to our Conservation fund. Our grateful thanks should go to Brian Jopling and his helpers for organising this useful event.

I am sorry to have to tell you that the valley road scheme behind the Gwyn Arms is going ahead despite adverse criticism by the Inspector in his report to the Secretary of State for Wales. I have written letters to practically everyone I felt could be of assistance to us and at present I am still awaiting the results of letters recently written. Even at this late stage it is conceivable that something may be done, although I must confess that I am not very optimistic.

During this last year I have lost the assistance of a keen supporter due to the death of Edward Aslett. Edward was very conservation conscious and over the last several years has been most helpful in gathering local information. In particular mention should be made of the close watch he kept on drilling activities in the area for me when exploratory drilling rigs were at work in the area in 1970.

In order to make more money for the conservation cause we have sold posters of the 'Columns' in OFD2. These have been sold all over Britain and my only sorrow is that it was not our Club who originated the idea and made the most money. However, sales have assisted our fund.

Now we come to the situation with regard to OFD. Most of you will have seen my recent write up about the situation but I am very pleased to be able to announce the news that the Nature Conservancy Council have just completed the purchase of the 'Wern' from the Forestry Commission. This piece of land covers a large proportion of the cave. It is expected that the area will be declared as a National Nature Reserve in the near future.

TREASURER'S REPORT

In 1974/75 inflation has caught up with us. Although a lot of money has been spent on the improvements, the increase in expenditure has gone up from £1300 in 1973/74 to £3200 in 1974/75.

Hopefully we shall not need to spend so much in 75/76 on cottage improvements, but the other costs - fuel and materials - will continue to increase. The published figures do not show exactly how much was spent and used e.g. a large coal bill from 73/74 was paid in 74/75, and we have about $\frac{1}{2}$ tank oil at present, but the overall picture is one of increase in costs.

(See Official Annual Account - £100 taken from repairs fund.

Table 1 expenditure analysis 73/74/75/76
Table 2 income analysis 73 - 76)

The main increases have been in FUEL, and also the newsletter. As you know increases in electricity charges and postage rates have just been announced, so these costs are all likely to go up in the next year.

The committee will do all it can to keep costs down. A possible solution to the coal problem is not to buy any, but we must buy Oil, Electricity, Gas. All members can help by not wasting gas or electricity, or using excess hot water in the kitchens or showers.

The newsletter costs have gone up because, in addition to postage, materials have increased incredibly over the last year, and we are receiving regular newsletters.

I am assuming that you want the club to continue to provide its amenities and you wish to continue to receive newsletters. This being the case they must be paid for.

(See table 3 Requirements table 4 Sources of revenue).

Table 4 shows how I think the charges should be split between H.Q. Fees and Annual Subscriptions. I estimate we need £1700 income for 75/76, and with subs at £3 and £5, H.Q. Fees at 25p and 40p this raises only £1500. It is hoped that the separate charge for showers for day visitors will raise the difference.

However, we cannot hope that inflation will stop, so I am proposing that subs should be £3 and £5 for 1975/76 and reviewed again in 1976/77 (probably £4 and £6). The committee will regulate the cottage fees when we see how much is spent on oil and collected on showers.

E. G. INSON
Hon Treasurer
March 1975.
